EXPERTISE

▪ Public law

Andreas advises clients from the private and public sectors on all administrative law issues in connection with the realisation of construction projects and the implementation of complex approval procedures for large-scale projects. Key practice areas include construction planning, building regulations and monument protection as well as specialist planning and environmental law (in particular nature conservation law, immission control law and environmental impact assessment law). Andreas also advises on all aspects of expropriation and compensation law and the law securing the utilisation of land. In addition, he provides advice on business administration law and constitutional law.
